GENTS GUIDES

Coal.

Our Major Energy Supply

The U.S. is the richest energy country on earth. But we have to put this energy to work. In the past we've been overly dependent on oil and natural gas for meeting our major energy requirements. Oil and gas, however, account for a very small percentage of the world's known energy reserves. Coal is far more abundant and nearly half of the known coal reserves in the world are located in the United States.

Full development of our coal resources will assure us of the energy we need for the future at prices we can afford. At the same time, using coal for electric power generation will release valuable oil and natural gas for the production of gasoline, chemicals and other products. In fact, federal law now mandates that no new electric generating plants may use oil and natural gas as boiler fuels. The fuels we can use—and must use—are uranium and coal. American uranium and coal.

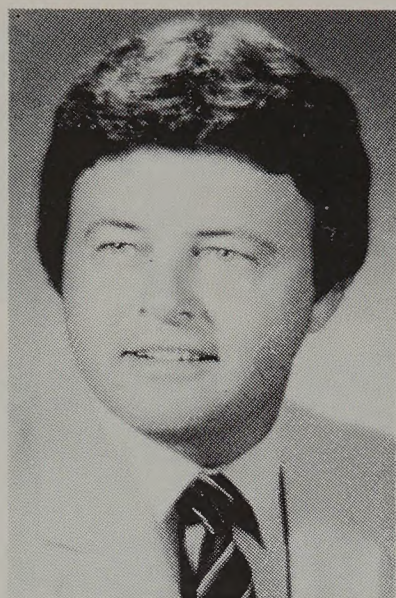

As our area grows both in population and industry, the demand for energy also will increase. Your investor-owned electric utility companies believe coal and nuclear power are essential in meeting these demands.

GENT HEAD COACH

Tommy Canterbury

Tommy Canterbury has been coaching basketball at Centenary College for five and a half seasons, and even though his career coaching record of 79 wins and 80 losses doesn't place him among the top in career winning percentage, he does rank as one of the top coaches in consistency.

Only one other coach in the history of Centenary basketball has put together four or more consecutive winning seasons, a fact which makes Canterbury the second most successful coach ever at the smallest NCAA Division I school in America. And with a 20 plus win season this year, he could earn his 100th career victory while still only 36 years old.

"I would give anything if I was 80-80 or 79-79," Canterbury said about his collegiate coaching record. "I think we ought to have a misprint in the brochure somewhere. All joking aside, we've had four out of five winners, four in a row.

"We had to make a lot of changes in a shaky operation five years ago," Canterbury added. "But it has really worked out well. I'm pleased, but I'm not satisfied yet."

The only thing that makes Canterbury's record look average is that he took over a basketball program in deep trouble and had to struggle for a year-and-a-half to get the program back on track. And since then, it's been winner, winner, winner, winner. In fact, his record the last four years is a valuable 64-51.

His teams have never finished lower than third in the Trans America Athletic Conference, and he owns an impressive 7-3 TAAC tournament record, the best in the league.

In his first full season, Canterbury was 9-20. But, the following year he did it his way. The most important move was when he hired Tommy Vardeman, the best assistant coach in Louisiana.

Canterbury and Vardeman sent home a few trouble makers after a terrible 1-7 start. They went on to court home a 15-14 mark, plus, they captured the TAAC tournament championship in Centenary's first season in the league. The Gents ended the season with seven straight wins.

In his third season the Gents were 16-12 and finished third in the TAAC, even though they lost Cherokee Rhone, the TAAC's Newcomer of the Year the previous year, at midseason with a knee injury. The next year, Canterbury put together an impressive 17-12 mark and finished second in the TAAC tournament, one game shy of the school's first NCAA appearance.

Last year Canterbury played one of the school's toughest Division I schedules, posting a 16-13 record that included a couple of close losses to SMU and Oklahoma State. After the tough one-point defeat at SMU, the Gents went on to win all three of their overtime games.

The Gents capped off the season by coming within a hair of upsetting heavily favored Arkansas-Little Rock in the semi-finals of the TAAC tournament on the winners home court.

Among his accomplishments over the past six years, Canterbury has done an excellent job in selling the Centenary basketball program, recruiting local players the community can identify with and getting out and meeting the public.

He has been very successful in recruiting blue-chip prospects and bringing them to Centenary. He has had the best three players in the league the last five years. In 1980-83 he recruited the Player of the Year and Newcomer of the Year in George Lett and Cherokee Rhone, respectively. Then, he recruited another Newcomer of the Year in Willie Jackson in 1981, and the Player of the Year, again in Jackson.

Canterbury has done a good job in filling the stands at Centenary. More fans came to watch the Gents play last year than ever before with a record-setting 36,726 in 15 games, an average of 2,448 per game, second only to the 1975 season when Centenary averaged 2,617 fans per game, but played fewer games.

In his first full season in 1978, Centenary averaged only 1,304 fans per game. Canterbury has nearly doubled the attendance, and this year he's hoping that with a very attractive home schedule the Gents will set new records at the turnstyles.

"One of our goals this year is to set new average attendance records," Canterbury said. "We like to set goals and shoot for them. I feel the addition of Greg Haddox to our staff has given us a wider range of value. We have four team goals that our staff feel are attainable.

"One is to record our fifth straight winning season. Our second goal is to win the regular season conference championship. Our third goal is to earn a post season play-off bid, and our fourth goal is to rank among the top 30 teams in the nation in scoring."

Canterbury is married to the former Carol Ann Thornhill of Columbia, Louisiana, a physical education teacher at the Bossier Community College. They have a nine year-old son, Chad.

GENT ASSISTANTS

Tommy Vardeman

Now in his fifth year as a member of the Centenary College basketball staff, Tommy Vardeman, a 40-year-old graduate of Stephen F. Austin (1965), is one of the main forces behind the success of the Centenary basketball program.

Vardeman was named assistant coach before the start of the '79-'80 season. Rumor has it though, that head coach Tommy Canterbury joined Vardeman. Anyhow, the two work very well together, and ever since the two merged, the Gents have won 64 and lost 51.

"Our working relationship is excellent," Canterbury says. "And that's the type of situation that makes our job a lot easier and more comfortable."

A native of Center, Texas, Vardeman is known for his quick wit and radiant wardrobe, although he has toned down the last few years. He has been coaching basketball for some 17 seasons and has never been associated with a losing program as a coach or player.

His coaching career began at Cleveland High School in Cleveland, Texas. He spent the next three years at Crosby, Channelview, and Liberty-Eylau, where his teams compiled a record of 76 wins and 36 losses.

He spent the next year as a graduate assistant at Louisiana Tech in 1970 where he completed a master's in education. After one season there, he moved to Missouri Baptist Junior College for one year and two more at Henderson State University in Arkansas, before returning as the head assistant at Tech for the next four years.

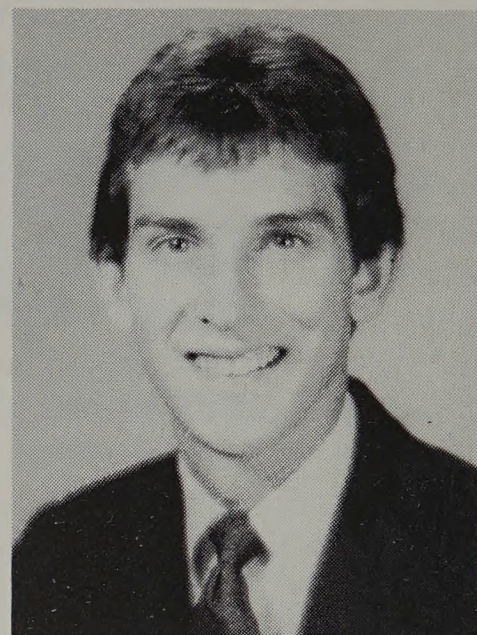

Afterwards, Vardeman left the coaching ranks and went into the wholesale jewelry business for a year before he joined the Centenary staff. "I played a lot of golf," Vardeman recalls about his outside interests, "but I just fooled around with jewelry."

Vardeman has been known to keep a writer or two busy with his quick one-liners, but the Country and Western Music lover feels at ease on the court and enjoys his work.

"I'm not bashful or shy," he contends. "I get along with everybody, and I like em' to be up front and tell me exactly where they stand."

He played two years in college at Stephen F. Austin, but a high school knee injury in football eventually forced him into early retirement. It was at Stephen F. Austin where he met his wife, the former Sharon Crocker of Garland, Texas. They have two daughters, Juli 16 and Jennifer 13.

Greg Haddox

The newest member of Tommy Canterbury's staff is Greg Haddox who joined the staff in 1982. In only his second season, Haddox was instrumental in signing Reginald Mosby and Andrew Dewberry last year.

Haddox, 23, is a 1982 graduate of Centenary College where he lettered four years as a guard. His best game as a Gent came in his final outing of his collegiate career, when he hit six straight 20-foot jumpers for a career-high 12 points.

A native of Ruston, Louisiana, Haddox prepped at Cedar Creek High School where he led the Cougars to three consecutive Louisiana Independent High School Association State Championships. He was voted co-captain his senior year.

He is presently serving as the Treasurer, the youngest officer ever, of the Louisiana Association of Basketball Coaches. Haddox will spend a lot of his time on the road this year recruiting and scouting.

"We were able to hire another assistant two years ago," head coach Tommy Canterbury said about Haddox. "We knew who we wanted all along, and Greg was that person."

"He's an over-achiever workaholic," Canterbury added. "He will be of special importance this year because of the number of recruits we will need to sign."

Haddox is married to the former Debbie Smith of Ruston, Louisiana.

HAL DAVIS MAKES MORE DECISIONS IN ONE HOUR THAN MOST RECENT COLLEGE GRADS MAKE ALL DAY.

"I'm a cavalry platoon leader, in charge of 43 men," says Hal. "I'm responsible for their education, their training, their well-being. So you can bet I'm making rapid-fire decisions all day. Decisions that have an impact on people's lives."

Army ROTC is a great way to prepare for being an Army officer. ROTC helps you develop discipline of mind and spirit. As well as your ability to make decisions under pressure.

Taking Army ROTC pays off in other ways. Like financial assistance —up to $1,000 a year for your last two years of ROTC. You could also win an ROTC scholarship, as Hal did. Each scholarship covers tuition, books, and more.

2nd Lt. Hal Davis was an industrial management major at the University of Tennessee and a member of Army ROTC.

If you'd like to step out of college and into a job with responsibility, do what Hal Davis did. Step into Army ROTC now.

THE ADMINISTRATION

THE PRESIDENT

Dr. Donald A. Webb

Centenary's commitment to athletics is a lifestyle both old as ancient Greece, and fresh as daybreak. Perhaps it was the Roman, Juvenal, who put the conviction best: "mens sana in corpore sano"; and a sound mind in a healthy body is the crux of education.

That is why we put the College's heart and full resources into it: athletics enables excellence, and we are committed to that.

As for the daybreak bit, come to the Gold Dome Complex, and hear the support. The image that springs to mind is Kipling's, "the dawn come up like thunder." Athletics draws better than anything the enthusiasm of the campus and the city, and provides a fine focus for both their recreation and their common loyalty. Athletics creates a good community, and we are committed to that.

In 1977 as Centenary's new president, Donald A. Webb brought with him those traditions of excellence and pride of community to which the College is so deeply committed.

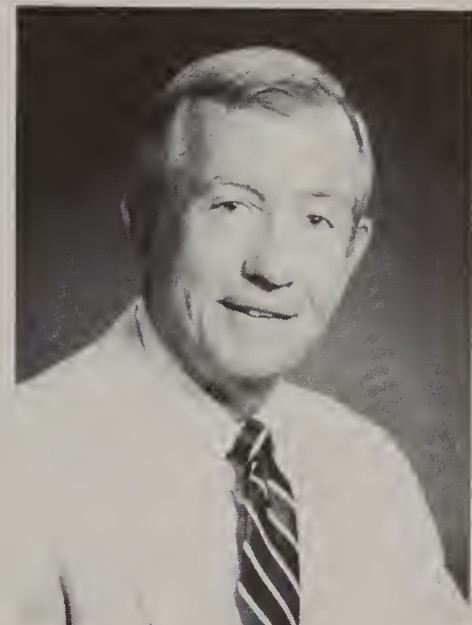

Born in Wales and raised in England, President Webb was educated at King's school in Peterborough, and at Cambridge University. He spent eight years in the Royal Navy, the last three as commanding officer of HMS Switha.

In 1958 he brought his wife, Renee, and their five children to the United States; and after graduating with honors from Ohio Wesleyan University, he earned his Master of Divinity Degree from Methodist Theological School. In 1966, he earned his Ph.D. in Literature and Theology from Drew University, where he also coached the rugby team.

He served as Vice President and Professor of Theology and Literature of the Methodist Theological School for 10 years before coming to Centenary as president.

Since that time, Dr. Webb has made a distinct impression on Centenary and the community as a man of commitment - at work and at play.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

Walt Stevens

Walter C. Stevens Jr., beginning his third year as Centenary College's athletic director, is the man responsible for coordinating activities and fund raising for the athletic department.

A native of Macon, Ga., the retired Air Force Colonel of 30 years graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1951. He later earned a masters at Louisiana Tech.

In his two-year service at Centenary, Stevens has been instrumental in the completion of a new six-court $180,000 tennis complex and the paving of parking areas close to the Gold Dome Complex.

"Adequate all-weather parking for our spectators has long been a problem," Stevens said of the parking situation at Centenary. "We have come a long way toward solving that problem."

The 54-year-old Stevens came to Centenary in February of 1981 and went to work as the Development Counselor in charge of raising academic and athletic scholarships. The following August he was appointed athletic director.

"We believe Centenary athletics are a cause for excitement, as these programs are the only source for intercollegiate sports in Shreveport-Bossier," Stevens said of the importance of athletics at Centenary.

"In 1983-84, we will sponsor eight men's sports (basketball, baseball, cross-country, golf, riflery, soccer, tennis and volleyball), and four women's sports (basketball, cross-country, tennis and gymnastics). The Gents will again compete in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division I, as will the Ladies in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA)."

Stevens coached freshman basketball and baseball from 1957-60 at Georgia Tech and studied under the legendary Bobby Dodd, who coached at Georgia Tech for 30 years.

He is married to the former Caroline Stillwell of Macon, Ga. They have five children; two sons, Walter III and William, and three daughters, Norma, Paula and Katherine.

Our Nickname

The unique nickname "Gentlemen" was first established in the fall of 1922. With the majority of Centenary men also soldiers, the moniker "Gentlemen" as a proud, looked-up-to name and a logical choice. A tongue-in-cheek account that first mentioned the new nickname appeared in the 1923 Yoncopin (Centenary yearbook) in that season's football summary:

"... The boys were beginning to round into pretty good form by this time and as several recruits had been recently added we were beginning to resemble a real college football team.

"Yet there was some doubt on the eve of the first game. Reports from the Marshall camp had them recruiting from the boiler factories and we were made to believe that the Marshall team was coming to Shreveport to mop-up with the "Gentlemen." (You see we had just taken the name of the "Centenary Gentlemen" and far be it from us to start a dispute just at that time).

"Well, we put on our best manners but just couldn't help from running up a seventy-seven to nothing score . . ."

Canterbury on Taylor:"At times last year Russell showed us some really good things, especially offensively. Our staff is hoping that he will emerge as a solid performer for us. He has worked really hard over the summer, and he is a definite scoring threat. Russell can play both guard positions and that will play heavily on our minds in zone situations."

Personal: Born 6/16/61 in Shreveport, Louisiana...parents are Donald and Marilyn Smith...has one brother, who is a starting guard for Louisiana Tech basketball team, and two sisters...married Donette Cook in spring of 1981...nickname is "Butter"...majoring in geology.

Canterbury on Smith: "Greg's speed and strength make him an aggressive big man. In spots last year, such as the UALR game, he was a definite, positive contributor. It would be a very positive factor for us if Greg could become a consistent contributor. We could really use another 6-8 man who could help. Greg has the tools; he just needs to learn to play under control."

Personal: Born 10/5/64 in Doyline, Louisiana...mother is Mattie Dewberry...has five brothers and two sisters...began playing basketball in the seventh grade when junior high coach asked him to play, in two years led team to 52-0 record...majoring in business.

Canterbury on Dewberry: "My staff and I are really excited about this guy. He's one of those all-around talents, like Albert Thomas and Willie Jackson, except he's more of a perimeter type player. A very intelligent, hard-working type player whose strength and maturity will enable him to play earlier than other guys. His defensive progress will determine how quickly he plays."

Just a Thought, or Two

by Bill McIntyre

Idle thoughts from busy hands:

Why is it that basketball, a non-contact game, is the only sport that banishes its players for common cause? Five brushes or wrist slaps--misdemeanors, if you will--and you're gone.

In baseball, you can interfere with base runners all day long, hit a dozen batters if you're a wild-throwing pitcher, throw your glove at all flying things in the field, and you're still there for nine innings. You'll give up a lot of runs, but you're still in the game.

In football, you can clip from behind on every other down, throw a couple of crack-back blocks, tackle everybody by the face mask, and you'll get stuck for a lot of yards in penalties. But you aren't banished to the bench.

Hockey? Don't be silly. Hit a guy over the head with your stick and skate to the penalty box. Then, after serving your time, you get back on the ice. Strike a low blow in boxing, intentionally, and they take away points. But you keep on fighting.

In just about every other sport you have to pole-axe somebody before you're tossed out of a game. But in basketball you gently caress the other guy's blouse five times and you head for the bench to take up permanent residence.

And why five fouls? Why not six or seven or eight, maybe 10?

I wonder if the basketball rulesmakers ever thought about keeping players in the game. What I mean is why can't they just increase the severity of penalties once they go beyond a quota of five infractions?

My first inclination would be to dole out three free throws to the offended party on a sixth foul, four foul shots on a seventh, and so on. I discarded that temptation immediately. There are far too many walks to the line already.

But why not just give the fouled team an automatic two points in the scorebook if the fouler commits a sixth violation. Three points for a seventh, etc. Now THAT would call for some coaching strategy; do you pull your big gunner and rest him after he draws the fifth, or leave him out there to give up those bonus points?

Just a thought.

Speaking of coaches, I wonder sometimes why they go to a delay game when they're on the lead, up by four or five points, and the clock is winding down. Have you ever seen a prevent defense in football prevent a scoring drive? No, you give up all that free yardage in midfield and pretty soon the other team is knocking on your door.

In basketball, a delay game--usually a four corner stall--requires one constant, movement of the ball. Each time a controlling player puts the ball on the floor, each time he passes off to a teammate, the chance for a misplay is multiplied. To err is human.

Think of all those times when teams behind on the scoreboard made "comebacks." Did they really come back? Or did the team on the lead give it away with a string of turnovers out of the delay game?

Just a thought.

If I was a coach, I'd keep doing what gave me that four- or five-point lead in the first place. Maybe that's why I'm not a coach.

Busy thoughts from idle hands:

The first time I knew there was a basketball team called Centenary Gents was the winter of '49. Fresh arrived from a faraway place, I'd listen to their games on the radio. The players had great names--Lenny Fant, Dean Veatch, Dean Busboom, and my favorite, Jerome Bushyhead. I'd sit there by the radio and wonder what a Jerome Bushyhead looked like.

One of the first teams I saw as a sportswriter with The Times was the Buss Delaney-coached unit of Connie Mac Rea, Pototo "Spud" Ramirez, Billy "Toar" Hester, Bob Wright and Art Franklin. What, I'd ask myself, was a Toar?

It's not in my dictionary. Tor is. It means "a high rock or pile of rocks on the top of a hill." That was probably it. Hester stood 7-feet-plus.

Connie Mac Rea was a second team Helms Foundation all-American. The first team included a guy you may have heard of--Clarence "Bevo" Francis, the scoring machine from Rio Grande College (the school was in Ohio, not Texas).

GOLD DOME

The geodesic Gold Dome is a landmark located just south of the main Centenary College campus. Besides housing the Centenary basketball team, the Gold Dome is a multi-purpose facility, constructed at a cost of $1.3 million plus equipment.

With a seating capacity of 4,000, including cushioned arm-chairs on the upper level bleachers encircling the court, the Gents have a home court seldom equaled by schools of its size.

Unique features of the structure include a Tartan floor, indirect lighting and the attractive gold anodized aluminum dome. The completely air-conditioned facility contains office space for the athletic and physical education departments, two classrooms, including one of the theater variety, and four large carpeted dressing rooms.

Like the building itself, the basketball court is a multi-purpose area, easily converted into two cross-court basketball courts, or eight volleyball courts, or 16 badminton courts. At the east end of the building are two championship handball courts, complete with spectator windows.

The dome was designed by the Shreveport architectural firm of Somdal-Smitherman-Sorensen-Sherman and Associates. Whitaker Construction Company of Shreveport was the contractor, while the Temcor Company of California erected the gold-colored dome.

LADIES HEAD COACH

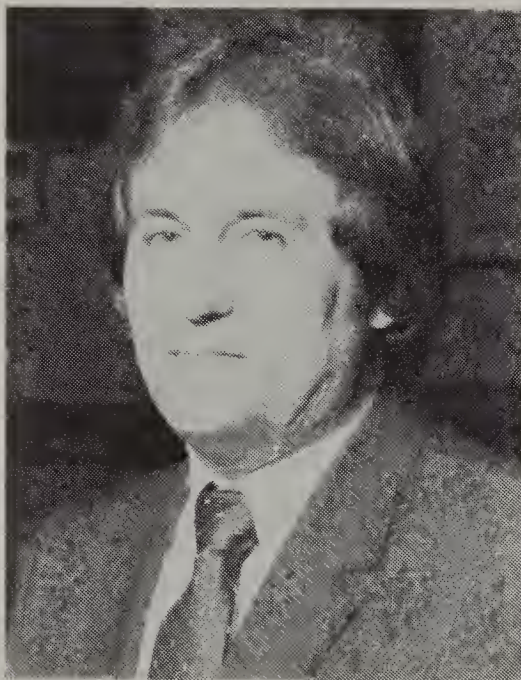

Entering his third season as women's basketball coach at Centenary College, Joe St. Andre is the only coach the Ladies program has ever known.

When St. Andre, at 37, takes to the tartan surface at the Gold Dome to open the 1983-84 season, he will have to overcome the highest mountain he's had to climb in three years.

But that's nothing new for the Natchitoches, Louisiana native. St. Andre took the first-year Ladies Basketball team two years ago and instantly reaped success with a 22-10 record, and a top 16 finish in the AIAW-Division II.

In his second season, the Ladies moved up a notch on the competitive ladder, joining the NAIA, after the AIAW folded.

Even though his Ladies finished with a disappointing 10-16 mark, he still guided the Ladies to their second consecutive post-season playoff in as many years, losing the first-round game to Springhill College in Birmingham.

This year, St. Andre will be working with a team that does not return one starter. In fact, only three returning players have playing experience.

A graduate of Northwestern State in 1969 with a B.S. in Mathematics, St. Andre started coaching basketball in the fall of 1970 at Haughton High School.

After two years at Haughton, he accepted the Athletic Director's job at Princeton Junior High. In addition, he coached football, basketball and track.

In 1977, St. Andre left Princeton and returned to his alma mater to work on his masters. In the following spring, he received his masters in education.

He is married to the former Brenda Quinn of Natchitoches. They have two children, one son Brian ten, and one daughter Micheala six.

Ladies Update

Although the Centenary Ladies Basketball team are having a trying year, there are a few bright spots. One of them is the Ladies' 6-11 freshman center from Johannesburg, South Africa Penny Brill. Brill is ranked 5th in scoring with a 17.2 average, 1st in field goal shooting with a .593 percentage and in third place in rebounding, grabbing 12.2 a game; all in the NAIA District 30.

In addition to Penny, sophomore forward Treasure Thomas ranks 1st in the district and 5th overall nationally in the NAIA in free throws, shooting 88 percent from the charity stripe hitting on 38 of 43 attempts.

The Ladies are currently 5-11 on the season excluding Tuesday's game against Dillard College. Included in the record is a good win versus William Carey College, 72-70. In that game, Amy Slaton paced the Ladies with 15 points and freshman Kristie Hill grabbed 9 rebounds. The Ladies were 3-2 at that point of the season, but since then the Ladies have dropped seven out of the last nine games up to date.

Coach St. Andre', in his third year at Centenary, is at a loss for words on this season. "We have a gutsy group of girls, we never give up," St. Andre' says, "they are also very intelligent." This statement is in reference to the Ladies extremely high team cumulative grade point average.

PENNY BRILL

The roster holds only nine girls on it. That is another reason for the result of this season, no depth. Plus injuries have depleted the reserves throughout the season.

Other Ladies on the squad are seniors Penny Lee, Linda Howard, juniors Mary Jo Monzingo, and sophomore Linda Keiser, Liz Hindman.

Helping Coach St. Andre' again this year is Kipper Montgomery as student assistant.

YOU CHOOSE

Records indicate that Centenary College's basketball team played its first game during the 1921-22 season when the Gentlemen from Shreveport won 17 and lost only 5.

Since the Gents inaugural season, they have won 655 and lost 552 (.543 percentage), and have consolidated 31 winning seasons and lost only 13. An impressive record for the smallest NCAA Division I school in the country. The Gents are currently thriving for their fifth straight winning season, tying a school record set from 1972-76.

Over 44 years of basketball has been played at Centenary, from Haynes Gym to Hirsch Coliseum to the Gold Dome, it's time to put together the All-Time 10-man Centenary Basketball team.

You make the choice. Rack your brain for the next nine games, vote as many times as you would like, but make this Centenary's best team.

All you have to do is purchase a program at either entrance and fill in the form at the bottom of this page, tear it out, and turn it into the public address announcer, anytime before, during, or after the game.

We will keep you abreast on the voting throughout the season, so if your player is running short, cast your ballot. Remember you can vote as many times as you would like.

You have to buy a program to vote. All other ballots received will be discarded. There have been many outstanding players over the years, and I'm sure you have your favorite player.

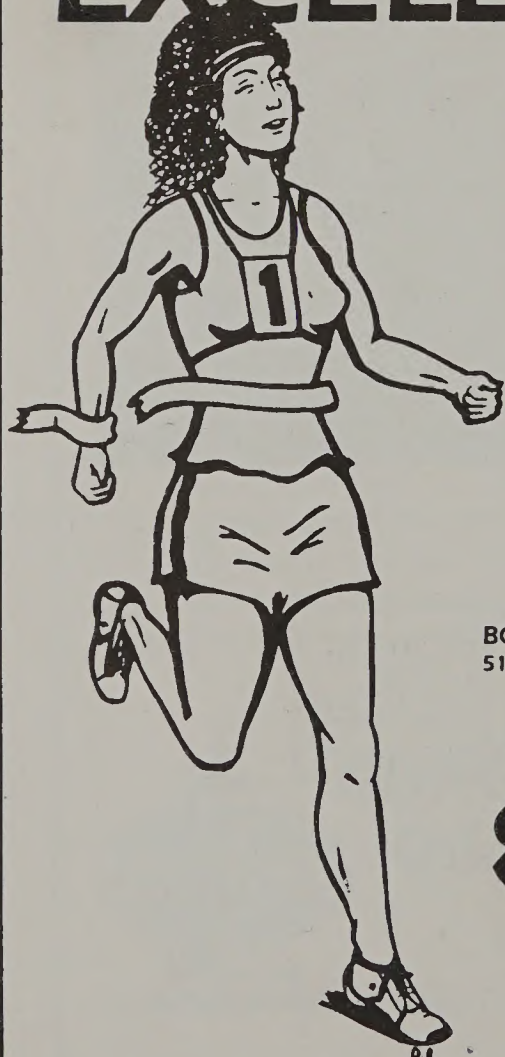

We will also announce the player who has been your favorite over the years. Bill McIntyre, a sports writer for The Times, will help bring back your memory in articles to follow in his column on pages nine and ten the rest of the season.

Hope your team makes it. If you can't remember 10 players who you think should be on the team, just list as many as you can recall. This is your team, selected only by the fans.
